HOW TO measure

step 1

choose your favourite fitting shirt

Get your favourite fitting Button Up Shirt and grab a tape measure or ruler.

TIP: don't get a Polo Shirt, Tee Shirt or Singlet because they stretch more than a woven does.

step 2

lay it down on a flat surface with the arms extended and smooth it flat.

TIP: make sure no-one is wearing it.

step 3

measure down 2.5cm

from where the arm is sewn onto the body, give yourself a 'mark'.

TIP: don't use a pen or marker, just make a light indentation in the fabric with your fingernail.

step 4

half chest measurement

Use this 'mark' you've just made and then measure across the front of the shirt from seam to seam.

TIP: only measure the front, that's why it's called a half chest measurement.

step 5

sizing tables in this catalogue or On-Line www.aussiepacific.com.au to match your half chest measurement to the Sizing Table.

TIP: do the measure up more than once in case you misread the numbers.

step 6

compare and consider

If your half chest measurement is 59cm then go to the shirt style you are going to choose and associate that cm measurement to the size of the shirt.

TIP: If you come in at 59cm, then consider going to an L at 60.5cm

VARIATIONS +/- 1 cm - 1/2 CHEST MEASURE

AUSSIEPACIFIC

2014.15 AUSSIE PACIFIC RANGE

premium teamwear

Aussie Pacific is recognised as one of the premium performance fabric teamwear labels in the South Pacific.

Using only the best fabrics, craftsmanship and construction, you can be assured that the garments you receive are top quality and of a retail standard.

We only use the genuine DRiWEAR™ yarn to create these garments for you. Our DRiWEAR™ yarn wicks moisture off your skin to keep you dry and comfortable.

This same yarn is anti-microbial or anti-bacterial to ensure that any unwelcome body odours do not stay in the garment.

What's more, we treat our yarn before the garments are made, this isn't a spray on after the manufacture because we understand that this is only a short term solution.

At Aussie Pacific, we understand that Image and Branding are the two of the most critical ingredients in any business, club, team or promotion.

If now is the time to create or re-invent your business, company, organisation or sport and you are starting with clothing then you're certainly on the right track!

Examine your garments closely, you will see that there has been no stone left unturned in bringing this fine apparel to you, your company, your team or organisation.

The Polos, Tees and Singlets you will see in this catalogue come in a huge range of colours and sizes and in most styles are available in mens, ladies and kids.

Taking the Eureka Polo for example, it has 23 team colours and 23 sizes from Kids 6 to Mens 5XL and every size in between.

Most Aussie Pacific performance fabric garments have a hoodie that compliments your colours so when you want to be the best and stay ahead of the rest then you're choosing the right brand.

If you want your brand to be recognised as the best in its field then don't settle for anything less, we don't!

DYE SUBLIMATION

DYE SUBLIMATION

Dye Sublimation is a process for printing designed themes using colour and imagination into fabric (not on to it). Chances are you've already got or seen dye sublimated garments in everyday use and of course, live or on TV predominantly in sports, events, promotions and some fashion.

But what if you are not creative?
Don't stress!

You can go and discuss your requirements with decoration professionals who will use their expertise to make sure you get your unique piece or you can go on-line and design your own Dye Sublimated apparel at www.aussiepacific.com.au, then take the design to your professional and we'll custom make you a garment with a minimum of only 20 pieces, how good is that?

With Dye Sublimation (referred to as Dye Sub) the graphics are computer generated and transferred by printing to special paper using special inks which are then transferred through heat and pressure into the fabric to give you a unique piece of clothing with the image or pattern embedded forever.

The image can be all over from seam to seam, won't fade, crack or fall off.

These garments are made in our China factory using the latest technology dye sub printers and heat presses.

Dye Sub can only be done successfully on 100% Polyester fabrics which especially suit the Aussie Pacific fabrics. This process ensures the graphics in the fabric are permanent never losing any detail or vibrancy yet the moisture removal and anti-bacterial properties of the yarn remains unchanged.

Dye Sublimated sports uniforms and apparel are popular as you can uniquely have any logo designs, patterns, numbers, names or sponsors printed onto your garments permanently using a fantastic range of colours & artistic techniques. Different types of our fabrics can be used and we can use sublimation printing to create virtually any sports uniform, promotional, event, corporate or retail garment.

OUR FABRICS WILL KEEP YOU AT PEAK PERFORMANCE

We figure the more you know about the highlights and features of the fabrics we offer, the better equipped and informed you'll be to make the decision to choose the best type of Aussie Pacific team wear so let us do the research for you?

BIRDSEYE

This fabric is an elegant yet durable 'Birdseye' knit that gives another dimension to the Aussie Pacific range.

Birdseye is an extremely lightweight, soft smooth silky feeling Polo that weighs only 155gm

This is a fabric knitted with a pattern of small diamonds, each having a dot in the centre or a surface texture of small uniform spots that suggest bird's eyes

This fabric has been introduced into this range for the Flinders (14 colours for Men and 15 for Ladies) and the Endeavour (19 colours) for both Men & Ladies.

Because both of these styles are a 100% Polyester DRiWEAR™ fabric, they are perfect for Dye Sub image on a white made up garment, embroidery or screen printing or both.

 Fabric gsm or gm is the 'grams per square metre' weight of a knit (polos, tees, singlets, hoodies) or woven (shirts or jackets) fabric.

COTTON BACKED PIQUÉ

This 180 gm fabric was introduced due to popular demand to the Aussie Pacific range in 2012 with the Paterson range which has been specifically knitted to have a comfortable layer of cotton (20%) against your skin while the outer fabric is polyester.

Five additional colours were added to the Paterson Polo and there are the Keira (5 colours in a Raglan Sleeve) and Panorama Polos (12 colours).

There is also a Winter co-ordinate Hoodie for both the Paterson & Panorama Polos with both flat front and zip through.

Also in a pique knit and while not cotton backed is the Reef Polo, a cotton blend Piqué knit fabric that amalgamates both the DRiWEAR™ and cotton yarns into a light yet breathable stylish polo.

Piqué Knit is pronounced "P-K" and is the fabric that is most associated with the famous original Lacoste Alligator Polo shirt since 1933 and it is also sometimes called a mesh piqué and is characterised by a textured fabric face with lots of tiny holes with a fabric back that is smooth.

Piqué construction is designed to pull moisture from the skin and wick it into the air by keeping the fabric and the wearer relatively dry and cool. Before the days of high tech and high performance Polyester yarns, Piqué was the original performance fabric and in our fabric it is combined with a uniquely created 5 side yarn to give both up to date and traditional moisture removal. Our Reef Polo (2014 RUNOUT) is a blend of DRiWEAR™ & Cotton also in a piqué knit.

MINI-WAFFLE

Mini-Waffle is sometimes known as a honeycomb fabric and is knitted in a way which makes it very absorbent.

The mini-waffle weave also allows air to flow into and through the garment so that it dries more quickly because the surface of the fabric is textured rather like an edible waffle, hence the name.

This texture gives more surface area for absorption than a normal flat surface and because it is knitted is more durable, it is not a mechanical or chemical process that can be washed off after thorough or heavy use.

Weighing in at 160gm, our Mini-Waffle has formed the backbone of the Aussie Pacific range and is kept in large quantities of both dyed and undyed fabric in China to facilitate speedy stock on floor replenishment or custom made cut & sew or dye sublimated garments.

To date, one of the most popular styles has been the Eureka Story with these Polos available in a massive 25 colours, the Tees in 23 colours and Singlets also 25 colours. These garments can be combined with the luxurious feeling Pongee fabric Tracksuits (18 colours).

Other Mini-Waffle Polos include the 2012 introduced Botany Story which is joined now by a feminine style Ladies Polo in 9 colours and a specific lady fit Singlet in 3 colours. The Botany also has Tee, Singlet and Hoodie co-ordinates.

Tried and true best selling styles in the now famous Mini-Waffle DRiWEAR™ include The Murray Polo (16 colours-Mens, Ladies & kids), The Premier Polo & Singlet story (17 Mens & 18 Ladies colours), the understated but elegant Yarra Polo for Men & Women (11 Mens and 12 Ladies colours) and the Sport Shorts in 8 colours.

FLEECES

2 different fabric compositions are used for our Fleece in a cotton rich knitted fabric featuring 80% Cotton (Kozi and Hotham styles for men, ladies & kids) and also a 50% Cotton (Botany, Cronulla, Paterson, Mawson, Panorama and Huxley styles for adults and juniors) both blended with Polyester.

The fleece fabrics we use have a smooth outer surface making it seem flat and on the inner is the texture and this is why it is often referred to as a brushed finish, it's the most common finish. Some features of fleece are that it provides warmth without undue weight, is soft to the touch, does not normally shrink, ravel or run and is easy to work with by printing or embroidery especially where the cotton content is high.

SOFTSHELL

Softshell technology was created by big global brand outdoor and sportswear manufacturers because it allowed them to develop and offer so-called “technical” or “functional” clothing which was optimised for the particular demands of the purpose for which it was designed by having something that was light, durable, wind and rain resistant.

Synthetic materials such as polyester based fabrics are good choices as they do not absorb moisture. This fabric features usually at least three layers which are identified as : 1/ an Inner layer -providing comfort by keeping the skin dry, we use a micro-fleece: 2/ a Mid layer - to provide warmth and 3/ a Shell layer - to protect from wind and water with this outer layer working as the protection cover over the other two layers. These layers are bonded together.

The Stirling Jacket is part of our range to offer a multi-purpose jacket that is easily at home in any environment where looking good yet staying warm & dry is a pre-requisite. Coming in both a Mens and stylish fitted Ladies jacket, we feel the technology in this jacket matches our DRIVEAR™ technology.

2014.15 decoration options

PROJECT THE
WAY YOUR BRAND IS PERCEIVED
BY USING ONLY
QUALITY DECORATION.

Aussie Pacific garment designers have taken into account the many different methods of decorating or monogramming apparel. Here we look at the 3 main methods of decoration yet there are others such as Digitally Printed transfers and Screen Printed transfers.

Because your Brand should be synonymous with a quality garment, then it makes sense to portray the way your Brand is perceived.

Today, any decoration goes on anything, a far change from the not too distant days where a small chest print or embroidery was the norm. Splash prints, tone on tone, print/emb. combos, badges, over seam printing and foiling in abstract patterns and fonts making the opposites attract.

SCREEN-PRINTING

To understand the time and care that is taken into each silk screen printed job, we thought it would be helpful to indicate what happens each time a job is printed.

The first step is artwork.

Once the artwork is finalised, it gets sent for processing. From there, and from your printing instructions your printer will come up with a composite proof for you so you can see what your design will look like on the t-shirts (or polos sweatshirts or other garments). This will confirm the specific print locations you have instructed to print.

After the art has been approved, then film is output to make the screens.

All of the art is then pre-registered and checked for detail and quality.

The first step in the screen department is to coat the screens with a photosensitive emulsion. Next, the screen dries, and it is placed on the vacuum light table and exposed with a 3000 watt metal halide light.

After being exposed the screens are then washed out with a pressure washer at around 1300 psi. Once the image is washed out, it is double checked with the films for accuracy.

Each colour in a design needs a screen and each screen must be blocked, taped, setup, and squeegeed.

Just imagine if we had to do this each time a t-shirt was ordered. You can see why screen printing was designed to print quality in bulk. For smaller runs, normally a 4-6 carousel is used. For larger runs with more colours, an automatic machine with 10-18 heads. By "flashing" or drying the ink between each colour layer, a bright, professional quality print, with years of wear and tear is achievable.

MACHINE EMBROIDERY

A term that describes a specially designed, computerised, embroidery or sewing-embroidery machine to automatically create a design from a pre-made pattern that is input into the machine. In 1980, the first computer graphics embroidery design system was introduced, running on a mini-computer. Technology was enhanced in 1982 with the introduction of the first multi-user system that allowed more than one person to be working on a different part of the embroidery process, vastly streamlining production times. Computerised machine embroidery has rapidly grown in popularity since the late 1990s.

Design Files or 'Masters' are typically downloaded to a computer and then transferred to an embroidery machine which can then be used to stitch out the embroidery designs.

SUBLIMATION

The basic dye sublimation process uses special heat-sensitive dyes to print graphics and text onto special transfer paper. The paper is then placed on a 100% polyester item and both are placed into a heat press.

When the heating cycle is completed, the image on the paper has been transferred to the item and has actually reformed into or underneath the coated surface.

Sublimation is always done on a polyester, polymer, or polymer-coated item.

At high temperatures, the solid dye converts into a gas without ever becoming a liquid. The same high temperature opens the pores of the polymer and allows the gas to enter. When the temperature drops, the pores close and the gas reverts to a solid state. It has now become a part of the polymer.

This is why dye sublimation can't be done on natural materials, such as 100% cotton.

Natural fibres and non-coated materials which have no "pores" to open.

A dye impregnates colour into (not on to) a material and this colour change is permanent.

Sublimation refers to changes from the solid, to the gaseous state without becoming liquid.

A polymer consists of large molecules made up of a linked series of repeated simple molecules. Dye sublimation refers to solid dye particles that are changed into gas using heat and pressure, which then bond with any polymers present and change back into a solid.

This means the composition of the polymer has changed, no fading, cracking, peeling because the colour/s is now part of the fabric.

The fluid stored in the inkjet cartridge is the carrier of the dye. The carrier stays on the paper and only the dye migrates from the paper to the substrate. The dye has little or no colour until heated, so what you see on the paper usually looks nothing like the final transferred image.

Dark materials cannot be used with the sublimation process on made up garments.

Remember; This is not ink. This is a dye.

Garments decorated with a dye sublimation transfer cannot be removed like images on shirts decorated with screen printing. Again, this is not ink that sits on top of the fabric; it is a dye that penetrates the fibre of the fabric.

The dye particles are designed to bond with polyester, and ignore everything else.

It is like trying to mix oil and water with most natural materials.

OUR CLOTHING IS DESIGNED FOR SUN PROTECTION AND PRODUCED FROM FABRICS RATED FOR THEIR LEVEL OF
ULTRAVIOLET (UV) PROTECTION.

At Aussie Pacific, we take our responsibility to the nation with UPF rated and compliant fabric cover. When the UV Index reaches 3 and above, you should use a combination of these Five steps to protect against sun damage:

SLIP ON some sun-protective clothing that covers as much skin as possible.

SLOP ON SPF30+ sunscreen – make sure it is broad spectrum and water resistant. Apply 20 minutes before you go outdoors and reapply every two hours.

SLAP ON A HAT another great way to protect your face, head, neck and ears.

SLIDE ON some sunglasses – make sure they meet Australian Standards.

SEEK SHADE. As you will see from the table below, the bulk of our fabrics colours are in the 'Excellent Protection' category as tested to comply with AS/NZS 4399:1996

You can rely on our garments to carry a minimum of a rating 30 (very good) to a 50+ rating of excellent protection.

If you are outdoors working or playing sport then you can rest assured that our garments are protecting your skin from those harsh rays even if the sun isn't shining.

Polyester contains an ester(benzene) ring that absorbs UV light. Factors that affect the level of sun protection provided by a fabric, in approximate order of importance, include weave, colour, weight, stretch, and wetness.

The more open/less dense the fabric, the worse the protection and the darker the colour, the more dye, the better the protection. Getting fabric wet reduces the protection as much as half.

PMS colour guide

AUSSIE PACIFIC'S COLOUR GUIDE CAN HELP YOU WITH YOUR COLOUR NEEDS.

We dye our fabrics to best match the international colour pallet referred to as PMS. The Pantone® Matching System (PMS) is a standardised colour matching system, that utilises the Pantone® numbering system for identifying colours in both textile dyes and inks.

By standardising these colours, different manufacturers in different locations or even countries can all reference a Pantone® numbered colour, making sure colours match.

The most commonly referenced colours are in the Pantone® solids palette.

The Pantone® Solid palette consists of 1,114 colours, identified by three or four digit numbers, followed by a C, U, Or M suffix.

Originally designed for the graphics industry, the Pantone® solids palette is now used by a wide range of industries, and is the most commonly used palette.

For example, Pantone 199 Red can be identified as Pantone 199C (C= Coated Paper), Pantone 199U (U= Uncoated Paper) or Pantone 199M (M=Matte Paper).

So, when you say Red you could mean any number of shades.

Every good Screen Print Company uses an ink mixing system that corresponds with the Pantone® Matching System (PMS).

Despite the exact nature of Pantone® colours, what you see is not always what you get when screen printing on textiles and PMS 'Fan' Books come in coated and uncoated versions.

Textiles do not come in coated and uncoated versions as paper does so C or coated colours are the best match for screen printing. Standard plastisol screen print ink has little shine by nature and more closely resembles the look of the coated PMS Colours.

Screen printing on dark garments requires an underbase so the true colour of the ink can be seen vibrantly because without an underbase the ink colours are absorbed by the garment.

An underbase is a layer of white ink before the design colours are printed and some lighter garments can be printed with no underbase depending on the colour of the garment and the ink colour.
